

Privacy Statement

The Association collects, stores and administers a range of personal information for the purpose of providing member services and is committed to protecting such information.

The Association recognises the right of its members and other stakeholders to have their personal information protected and made accessible to them.

The Association is not formally bound by the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) since our annual turnover is below the applicable threshold.¹ Nevertheless, we will make every effort to comply with the intent of the Act, including the Australian Privacy Principles.
